

I've long suspected that the FCC is just the Washington branch of Clear Channel Communications. Attempting to prevent XM satellite radio from broadcasting localized content, only serves to prove my doubts. The FCC should be on the side of innovation, not simply working for the biggest GOP contributors.